

Excess Casualty Insurance for Commercial Construction

Substantial liabilities and unforeseen events characterize the evolving landscape of commercial construction projects. Excess casualty insurance provided by BCS offers higher limits and custom coverage that help protect against these risks.

Why Do You Need Excess Casualty Insurance for Commercial Construction?

With the high risk inherent in office tower and shopping mall construction projects, construction excess casualty insurance offers that needed layer of protection for your business to confidently navigate the complexities of your projects. Berkley Construction Solutions excess casualty insurance is a strategic asset that offers:

Comprehensive Protection: Commercial construction projects often involve building in densely populated areas that can put the public at added risk for injury. Our excess casualty insurance solutions, written on a follow form basis, are designed to provide protection and continuity of coverage.

Higher Limits for Enhanced Protection: The legal environment is volatile, and the financial stakes are high. We offer significant limits – up to $25 million – ensuring your business is adequately protected against costly, unexpected events.

Dedicated Construction Claims Expertise: Construction claims are big and require expert oversight. That's why we handle our claims in-house rather than via a third-party provider. Our direct-handled approach ensures continuity, clarity and efficiency which are all critical components in managing claims in a volatile and uncertain environment.
